CURRICULUM VITAE and RESUME

Dr Manuel Carballo is an epidemiologist who has a PhD and MPH in epidemiology and a post doctoral diploma in social psychiatry. In recent years he has specialised in HIV/AIDS, TB, reproductive health, and psychosocial health issues, especially with respect to mobile populations such as refugees, regular and irregular migrants, humanitarian and post-conflict reconstruction. Dr Carballo is the Executive Director of the International Centre for Migration, Health and Development (ICMHD) in Geneva, and is also Professor of Clinical Public Health at Columbia University in New York, and Adjunct professor of Public Health at Tulane University in New Orleans. Before joining ICMHD he was a senior staff member of WHO where he was first of all Coordinator of the Infant and Young Child Feeding Program and the first International Study on Breast feeding and Infant and Maternal Health which then led to the International Code on Marketing of Breast Milk Substitutes. In 1986 he was part of the three-person team that was asked to set up the WHO Global Program on AIDS (GPA) where he remained until 1991 as Chief of Behavioural Research. From 1993-95 he was Public Health Advisor for WHO based in Sarajevo and with special responsibility for displaced people. After the war he continued as advisor to the Minister of Health of Bosnia and Herzegovina. In addition to Bosnia and Herzegovina, he has worked in Tunisia, Guatemala, Cambodia, Namibia, DRC and Sierra Leone and has been on health evaluation missions for the UNFPA to Palestine (OPT) in 2002 and 2003, Iraq in 2003 and Afghanistan in 2005 and 2006. Following the Tsunami he was responsible for organizing the UNFPA relief response in the Maldives again with reference to displaced populations. Dr Carballo is currently coordinating four international studies on: type 2 diabetes in migrants; hepatitis B and C in migrants; TB in migrants; gestational diabetes in Jamaica, Panama and Mexico.
